Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from When Labor Goes to School: A Story of the Worker's Educational Movement More and more thinking men and women are realizing how largely shortages in peoples lives are due to shortages in their education. A large percentage of the membership of the Young Women's Christian Association consists of women whose education has been cut short at an early age, and who are for this reason seriously handicapped not only in the business of earning a living, but also in the business of living. To enable these women to bridge over the gaps in their education is, therefore, becoming an increasingly important concern of this organization, especially now that women are assuming heavier responsibilities as citizens than they have ever shouldered before. If this organization is to continue to be a pioneer in supplying to women supplementary opportunities for education, it must keep informed as to what efforts wage-earning men and women are making to educate themselves, and must be able to give intelligent information to those of its members who are seeking further...

Reviews

This book is definitely not straightforward to get started on studying but extremely exciting to read. It is really simplistic but shocks in the 50 percent of the ebook. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

This publication is amazing. It is definitely basic but shocks in the fifty percent of your publication. You won't feel monotony at anytime of your own time (that's what catalogues are for concerning if you question me).
